

Language

Language: Expressive (Spoken)

1. Say the months of the year out loud in order, starting with January.
2. Look at an object near you right now. Say its name out loud, then say one word that describes it.
3. Here are three words: dog, park, morning. Say one full sentence out loud that uses all three.

Language: Expressive (Written)

1. Write the numbers 1 through 20 in order, then read your list back out loud.
2. Look at an object near you. Write one sentence describing what it looks like and what it is used for.
3. Here are three words: quickly, umbrella, rain. Write one full sentence using all three.

Language: Receptive (Spoken)

1. Listen to this instruction: fold a piece of paper in half. Say out loud: is the paper bigger or smaller than before after folding it?
2. Listen to this description: it is round, orange, and you peel it before eating it. Say out loud what is being described.
3. Listen: "The sun is cold at night." Say out loud whether that is true or false.

Language — Receptive (Written)

1. Read this instruction: turn off a light switch near you. Type your answer: will the room get darker or brighter?
2. Read this word: chair. Type one sentence describing what it is used for.
3. Read this description: it has four legs, a back, and people sit on it. Type the name of the object being described.
4. Read: "Tom forgot his umbrella. It started to rain on his walk home." Type your answer: what problem did Tom have?

Speech

Speech: Motor Speech (Dysarthria)

1. Say "oo-ee-oo-ee" out loud, rounding your lips fully on "oo" and spreading them fully on "ee." Repeat ten times.

2. Open your jaw slowly as wide as is comfortable, then close it slowly. Repeat five times, then say "ah" with a fully open jaw.
3. Say this sentence out loud, exaggerating every consonant more than feels natural: The big black cat sat on the mat.
4. Tap the table once for each word while saying: "I am speaking one word at a time," keeping every tap evenly spaced.

Speech: Fluency

1. Say out loud, starting the very first sound gently and gradually instead of with a hard push: "Amazing things can happen today."
2. Read at a deliberately slower, smoother pace: "The morning sun rose over the quiet hills as birds began to sing."
3. Talk for one minute about your morning, using a soft gentle start on the first word of every sentence.

Speech: Social Pragmatic

1. Pick a topic, like your favorite weekend activity. Talk out loud about it for three back-and-forth exchanges without changing the subject.
2. Introduce yourself to someone new, including your name and one thing you enjoy doing.
3. Think of three things you did this morning, in order. Tell them as a short story with a beginning, middle, and end.

Speech: Voice Disorders

1. Hum gently for five seconds, feeling a light buzzing or vibration around your lips and nose.
2. Say "ee" out loud, sliding your pitch smoothly from low to high like a gentle siren going up.
3. Say out loud how much water you drank today and whether you did any shouting or a lot of throat-clearing.
4. Hum briefly, then say "My voice feels easy and comfortable" keeping that same easy, forward, buzzy voice feeling throughout.